Summer employment information on the back!

Jessica Martinez
Frosh
Math Major
Intern at Mission Hill Middle School

Hear from a Current Cal Teach 1 Intern!

“It has been interesting to go from simply having the idea of wanting to be a teacher to actually getting started on that road by observing my host teacher. I knew teaching was a difficult profession, but I had no idea just how much careful planning it takes. Teachers must constantly revise their lesson plans and they must be flexible to meet the needs of every student.

“I was a bit shy to talk to the students at first, and they were also shy about asking me questions. My host teacher encouraged me to walk around the classroom while the students do their homework, and this makes it easier for the students to raise their hands and ask me questions when I'm walking by them. My host teacher is also very approachable and she is always happy to answer my questions before or after class.

“I had mainly thought of teaching as lecturing, but in the seminar we learned that it is more effective to teach a new math concept by asking the students questions. Students learn more when they have to think about what they are learning, rather than just being told what they must know.”

Jessica plans to take the Cal Teach 2 internship next fall.

Interested in trying out your first math or science teaching internship?
